Resolution Inspires Poetry

By Jack MC Staier

"I just decided that I would like to be a person who has read all of Shakespeare's plays and that was going to be my New Year's resolution." Elizabeth Sylvia, Mattapoisett resident and published poet, explained the impetus behind her work.

Working as an English teacher meant she had more than a passing familiarity with the Bard of Avon, but she wanted to dig into his works, "completionist" style. Two years of work later, she has published her first book of poems titled "None but Witches," itself a line from the play, "A Comedy of Errors."

"There wasn't (initially) any writing component to that resolution, but once I started reading the plays ..." recalled Sylvia.

The first poem she was inspired to write came while reading "Titus Andronicus," one of Shakespeare's bloodier tragedies.

"It's about the corrosive nature of vengeance and about how good it feels when you're thinking about revenge but how bad it really is for you in the end. How you destroy the things you love," explained Sylvia.

Vengeance is certainly a powerful notion and one worth putting pen to paper for. But as Sylvia continued through Shakespeare's works, the urge to write only grew. Finally, after realizing she had 28 poems from the catalog already, she decided to go all in.

"It morphed into a writing project because I was so ... not even necessarily inspired. Sometimes I was inspired, but other times I was actually kind of irritated Michelle Skaar of the library's young adult programming invited the makeup artist for her teen group, but it quickly became apparent that mask making is a cross-generational activity. Pasciutti decided to pursue makeup when he was a theater art major in college. Since those early days, materials and makeup have advanced tremendously. or frustrated or angry with the situations Shakespeare created, especially for a lot of his female characters."

Overall, Sylvia wanted to pay more attention to the women in Shakespeare's plays, whether that be the popularly mourned figures like Juliet and Ophelia, those strong-willed and outspoken types like Beatrice or the outright schemers like Lady Macbeth. When it comes to her style, Sylvia noted that while she was inspired by Shakespeare's works, she didn't want to try to sound like him.

"A lot of the poems inhabit... not a world of Shakespeare, but a contemporary world that's influenced by the things I read," Sylvia said. "Some of the poems are about my own experience, some of them are more ideas driven, some of them are really about the plays. So there's really a range there."

Using her own voice and style meant eschewing iambic pentameter. "I deliberately said when I was working on this project that I was not going to write any sonnets... because I know that I can't write Shakespeare better than Shakespeare could write himself. But I don't think any writer could spend two years reading Shakespeare, who was so inventive with language and so complex with language and so free to move the pieces of language around without being influenced by that kind of... diversity and seniority of language."

Still, when it comes to the Bard, she was emphatic that his works were for everyone.

"If you want to read Shakespeare, I would say just do it," said Sylvia. "And especially since the pandemic, there have been some fantastic kind of... mostly audio with a little bit of video presentations on YouTube, where wonderful stage actors have staged sort of 'Zoom Shakespeares.' So if you don't want to read, be a listener."

Much like poetry, hearing Shakespeare perform rather than reading it off the page can be an entirely new experience, bringing depth to words a reader might otherwise have glanced over.

"I think the misconception of Shakespeare is that you have to be really smart to enjoy Shakespeare," said Sylvia. "Shakespeare, especially when performed, was by intention made to appeal to a wide variety of audiences. And sometimes that is fat jokes and sexual innuendos and ridiculous things happening."

Some of his fat jokes were in fact the inspiration for one of her poems called "Nell's Own."

"I think ('Nell's Own' is) one of my favorites, and it's been a crowd favorite too," she said.

The eponymous Nell is a character from "A Comedy of Errors." She never actually appears on stage; instead, her appearance is described as a source of mockery. "Basically, there's almost two entire pages of the play in which two characters laugh about how fat she is," said Sylvia. Unsatisfied with Shakespeare's attempt at getting a cheap laugh, Sylvia took a crack at reclaiming the narrative.

"I wrote a poem from her perspective... turning all that mockery around into a source of power."

The offhanded body shaming isn't the only critique she levels against the full folio.

"Shakespeare was a product of his time," she noted, for better or for worse. "As much as he transcended his time, which I think he also did, I think the idea of personal will, especially when it came to young women, was not something that he espoused."

Certainly, social attitudes have changed since Shakespeare's time, though many of his works and characters continue to be thematically relevant and emotionally relatable.

For Sylvia, the character closest to her heart is Audrey, a simple goatherd from "As You Like It." While much of the play is about nobility fleeing their riches to live in the woods, Audrey regards her farm life as something to escape from. When the opportunity presents itself, Audrey marries the royal clown – yes, clown – without hesitation, moving into the ranks of minor nobility and leaving behind her role as a goatherd.

"I always think of her as a character Shakespeare would have written for people like him, who moved to London from the countryside and were really excited to be... exposed to all of these experiences that they wouldn't otherwise have had," Sylvia explained.

Small-town life might be charming in our current digital age, but back before indoor plumbing one could understand the appeal of a metropolitan lifestyle.

When asked what other characters struck a particular chord with her, she named various mothers from Shakespeare's early historical plays due to their repeated and inevitable loss.

"(They're) trying to ensure the safety of their children in a world where everything is so much out of their control," she explained, noting that if there was a mother present, one or more of her children were bound to come to a grisly end, and how that impacted her. "I think when you're a mom you feel that way. Like you want everything to go right for your kids and you just... like there are so many things that you don't have any power over.

"My kids are not in any danger of being beheaded, but I think that feeling of 'How can I keep them safe when I just don't have the power to be able to do that?' is something that any mom can connect to."

Sylvia's connection occurred at the same time as the separation of families at the U.S.-Mexican border. The televised mourning of mothers trying to find their children, she felt, was reflected in the stories she now read, further deepening the emotion she found in them, something she attempted to capture in her anthology.

Those interested in hearing more of Sylvia's work can attend the reading at the Mattapoisett Public Library on Saturday, October 22, at 2:00 pm. Author Wendy Drexler will also be reading poems from her work "Notes from the Column of Memory," which should please fans of sonnets, as it contains several around the central themes of time, family and memory.

In closing, Sylvia offered this bit of simple advice to aspiring bards.

"If you want to write poetry, then I would say write poetry." She also mentioned her own poetry group, which she cited as a huge source of support and encouragement through her writing process. "I think the number-one thing people interested in writing poetry should do is find other people to write with."

Coyotes on Edge of Suburbia

By George B. Emmons

The neighborhood Coyote often visiting our backyards and seen running along country roads in the headlights of our cars has evolved in crossbreeding to be as large today as a German Shepard dog.

The modern Coyote has become much bigger than the small, 25-pound western canine that we saw in a Walt Disney character cartoon. It was recently estimated to be 60% Coyote, 30% Canadian Brush Wolf and 10% dog small dogs let outside for a brief opportunity to relieve themselves, making Coyotes very unpopular anywhere. The last Coyote den I visited included a wide variety of bits of fir and feathers, including white-tail evidence of deer fawns.

Just last week while looking out my back porch picture window on Little Bay in Fairhaven, I was astonished to see a very large Coyote looking back at me with a wild expression, not to be disturbed by his proximity. My illustration looking across at Ashley Island was also helped by my daughter Elizabeth, showing colorful deciduous autumn foliage of salty rust crimson and seaside burnt orange. Nearby is our wooden Osprey nest platform, abandoned last month to migrate south for the winter.

My nearest neighbors along Indian Way leading down to our beach report hearing howling at night of a family of Coyotes, starting out with a blood-curdling howl followed by a wavering harmony to another den far off in the distance. They seem to be inspired by a full October Moon rising over the horizon. Although their reason to sing seems to be a primitive mindset of orchestration, Coyote attacks on people are historically very rare and preventable by human caution and remedial behavior.

An angry, offended Coyote attack is often when being bitten by someone trying to rescue pets from attack or being fed by someone. Under no circumstance is the killing of wild species to reduce population somehow justified as an act of retribution.

The Coyote is today thriving on the edges of suburbia, and people are only entitled to evaluate a specific situation before making a final judgment and acting.

In the fall of 1993, legendary New England skills coach Paul Vincent's 18-year-old son Paul Vincent Jr. was playing major junior for the Seattle Thunderbirds of the Western Hockey League, and the Haywards housed the player as his billet family.

"That became a lifelong bond for all of us," said Hayward, who forged a relationship with the Vincents and having transferred as a high school sophomore, went coast to coast for prep education at Tabor Academy.

building on hockey. He was Tabor's Sophomore Male Athlete of the Year, recipient of the 1997 Rip Perry Trophy (finest team spirit, sportsmanship and outstanding play in football) and won two hockey awards, the 1997 Lucien O. Lavoie Trophy (most improved) and the 1998 Coach's Award (MVP).

After his 1998 graduation, Hayward played Division I hockey at Northeastern University, where he was recipient of the Huskies' Unsung Hero Award. He went on to play five full seasons of pro hockey, including 100 American Hockey League games. He helped lead Trenton to the 2005 ECHL championship and was named Finals MVP.

But, like many young African Americans skating in the wake of trailblazers like Willie O'Ree, Alton White and Val James, Hayward was not unique as a hockey player. Rather, it is his emergence as an impactful prep and college coach that has his hockey stock climbing.

"This (honor) is probably more for my coaching career than my playing career, but I just knew Tabor was a place for me, and when I looked at schools I knew that Northeastern was a place for me," said Hayward, who had not been back on the Marion campus since coaching against Tabor behind the Governor's Academy hockey bench almost 10 years ago.

On Saturday, Hayward was inducted into the Tabor Academy Athletic Hall of Fame, alongside girls' sports coach and builder Joan Roller, wrestler Jim Henry

As the Halloween season approaches, there are scary situations our pets may get into. From the types of candies, to the waste they create. One of them being chocolate. There are different types and levels of toxicity depending on your pet's weight. Please refer to the chart below to gauge the risk factor in your pet. Certain chocolate bars also contain nuts that can also pose a risk. Xylitol poses a very big risk when consumed. This can cause liver issues and blood glucose levels to drop. The candy isn't the only villain this spooky season, wrappers can cause haunting damage. Keep an extra close eye on your pet and contact Animal Poison Control at (888) 426-4435 if consumption is suspected.

deep south states, it became very important to me that I played well just because of the one black family at a game and (let's say) they have a kid ... I wanted him to have someone to cheer for."

Hayward had two black teammates during his freshman year at Northeastern, where he would later earn a master's degree in Leadership in 2014.

Having coached at Avon Old Farms and the Taft School, The Governor's Academy made Hayward the first African-American head hockey coach in New England prep schools. Since then, his recruiting has helped raise the profile of Colorado College to a national power and is now the first assistant coach, helping build a fledgling Division I program at the University of St. Thomas in Saint Paul, Minnesota.

The NHL Coaches Association BIPOC Coaching program, which aims to identify and develop future coaches and general managers, has its eyes trained on Hayward.

"I did development camp with the (NHL New Jersey) Devils this year. ... It was kind of an internship," said Hayward. "You never know what the future holds, but I love coaching college hockey."

Dating back to the 1970-71 season, Joan V. Roller brought girls athletics into the 20th century and then the 21st at Tabor with 46 years of service, passionately coaching basketball but championing the cause of equal treatment for girls in all sports.

Her work was twice recognized by Tabor, first with the Joan V. Roller Award (to the player who demonstrates unselfish commitment and outstanding contribution to Tabor's girls' varsity basketball program) and in 2011 when the refurbished varsity basketball court in Stone Gymnasium was named for her and husband Richard.

Marion native Jim Henry (Class of 1975) achieved success in football, wrestling and crew and did so in the wake of three older brothers who had preceded him at Tabor. After his sophomore year, Jim rowed at the 1973 Henley Royal Regatta, in his junior year was a starter in all three sports, and then a captain in all three sports in his senior year.

Rally for Rylie, the 'Warrior Princess'

By Jack MC Staier

On Wednesday, October 26, the Wareham Police Association is holding a blood drive from 9:00 am to 3:00 pm at the Wareham Police Station. The event is in honor of two-year-old "Warrior Princess" Rylie Grace Dion.

In June, Rylie was admitted to Boston's Children's Hospital due to swollen lymph nodes. The following month, she had several masses removed that were sent for testing, though one was too risky to remove due to nerve entanglement.

Rylie's mother, Kristi Weigel, works as a nurse, and is the daughter of Rochester Fire Chief Scott Weigel.

The family is selling T-shirts to help raise money for Rylie's treatments, which can be found at bonfire.com/rally-for-rylie/.

"Rylie loves the color pink," Kristi told The Wanderer in a written interview. "(Her) favorite things to do are play dolls and dress up as princesses!"

The youngest of three children, Rylie has been diagnosed with Nontuberculous Mycobacteria (NTM), as well as Chronic Cervicofacial Lymphadenitis. It's a rare disease and will require a year or more of treatments.

The Wareham Police Association got involved since Wareham Police Officer Calib LaRue is a friend of the family, and his wife is a nurse at Wareham Pediatrics, where Rylie is also a patient.

"(She) has given us so much support," Kristi said gratefully. "We have had so much support from our community. (The) Friends of Jack Foundation has done so much for Rylie."

Officer LaRue reached out a few months before and asked if Kristi would be okay with honoring Rylie for the association's annual blood drive. Kristi was more than happy to approve and support two great causes at the

A Leader Dedicated To Fighting For You.

On Beacon Hill, Bill serves as the House Chair of the Transportation Committee. This important position has allowed him to push for and obtain funding for SouthCoast Rail, which is now under construction and scheduled to begin service to the New Bedford area in 2023.

Bill also secured funding for local projects including several new school construction projects, Union Wharf repairs in Fairhaven, Marion sewer system repairs, a new public boat ramp in Mattapoisett, and road safety improvements in Rochester and on Route 6 from Fairhaven to Marion, and the new Fort Phoenix pickle ball courts.

Bill has supported added tax and financial relief this year for his constituents:

- Increase in Child & Dependent Care Tax credit for young families
- Doubling of the Seniors Circuit Breaker Tax Credit allowing renters and homeowners to keep their housing
- Doubling the existing estate tax exclusion from $1 to $2 million
- $300 million for the unemployment fund to relieve businesses of severe increases in their contributions

"My hope for the fundraiser is to get blood donations for these kids who have no choice but to battle these illnesses like Rylie," she stated. "Donating blood might seem like such a simple thing to do, but it truly is a priceless gift for so many kids. The blood and platelets help these sick kids make new cells to help them fight. Blood donors are true heroes."

Those who might be squeamish around a blood-donation site can still spread the word, as well as supporting the family through their Bonfire link or Rylie's GoFundMe page that can be found by searching "Rylie Grace," "Katelyn Weigel" or "Kristi Weigel" on the website.

"Her mom and dad have not left their side and are grateful for the support they have received from family and friends with Braydon and Chase!" the description reads. "Rylie has amazing strength and will get through this unknown time!"

Cannabis Shop Gains Approval

Rochester Select Board

by Michael J. DeCicco

The Rochester Select Board Monday night unanimously approved the Host Agreement that will plant "Megan's Organic Market," a cannabis retail store, within the Rochester Crossroads mixed-use development at Routes 58 and 28.

Before the approval vote, Town Administrator Glenn Cannon and Town Counsel Blair Bailey reported the agreement includes the state-required mandate that the town will receive 3% of its revenues. Plus, the store will have to pay an impact fee of up to $100,000 after its first year of operation.

Bailey said this fee will be based on the business's actual impact on the town's infrastructure after that year.

The pact also notes the business agreed to contribute some sort of "community investment" to the town, Bailey said. But the specifics of that are yet to be determined, he explained.

Company principal Nick Andrian told the selectmen in his first meeting with them in August that the company's typical design is to place the actual products on display on the store shelves, not behind the checkout counter. But since Massachusetts does not allow that, the Rochester store will display "dummy packaging" that customers can take to the counter to do the actual ordering.

The selectmen started Monday's meeting with a trio of Rochester Police Department promotions. The board approved Chief Robert Small's recommendation to appoint Emmanuel Matias, currently a part-time patrolman, to a full-time position. Brendan Emberg was promoted from full-time officer to detective. Officer Jason Denham was promoted to sergeant.

Next came appointments to the town's new Personnel Board, an effort sparked by the fact that Rochester, until now, had no such committee to handle the town's personnel issues.

The Personnel Board Appointing Authority consisting of Select Board Chairman Woody Hartley, Town Moderator David Arancio and Finance Committee Chairman Kris Stoltenberg appointed to the new board: Marion's deputy harbormaster and shellfish officer Adam Murphy, retired U.S. Coast Guard officer and Marion firefighter Peter Bourgault, and Christine Nash, a retired educator and school superintendent from four school districts.

Before the vote, Hartley said until now the town has relied on the town administrators and others with little applicable experience for its decisions on human-resources issues. "It's an area we need to strengthen," he said.

Appointing Authority members said the new board will now handle matters such as cost-of-living increases, pay-step increases and grievances.

The board then approved two more projects for funding out of the $10,000 that Covanta Company's recent "outreach contribution" recently gave to the town. The money will go to the Facilities Department to irrigate the athletic fields and to replace athletic field bleachers. The board had previously endorsed the use of these funds for a Police Department emergency restraint chair.

Cannon announced that $50,000 in state funding facilitated by Senator Michael Rodrigues has been received for the Council on Aging to buy a new minivan for senior transportation. Funds totaling another $50,000 facilitated by Representative William Straus have been received for the Public Safety Infrastructure Feasibility Study.

The board's next meeting is scheduled for Monday, October 31, at 6:00 pm at Town Hall and accessible via Zoom.

Mooney Named Interim Town Administrator

Marion Select Board

By Mick Colageo

How to replace Jay McGrail, Marion's town administrator of the past three years, was officially addressed by the Select Board for the first time during Monday night's public meeting at the Police Station.

McGrail won the job as Middleborough's new town manager on October 11 with a unanimous vote of its Select Board. His final day working for Marion will be Friday, November 11.

"I'm most proud of the team we have built," said McGrail, who was effusive in his praise of Finance Director Judy Mooney, whom he touted for the interim role of town administrator following his impending departure from the Marion job. "I've worked with Judy hand in hand, every single, solitary day for three years. There's nothing she hasn't done."

The Select Board enthusiastically agreed with McGrail about Mooney's performance and voted unanimously to name her the interim town administrator.

In the immediate, the board also voted at McGrail's recommendation to retain Bernie Lynch, founder and managing principal of Plymouth-based Community Paradigm Associates, to conduct a job search at a cost of $9,500.

McGrail said Lynch's initial steps will be calling the three Select Board members for initial guidance, then hold discussions with all Marion department heads. He would present a complete package for the board's consumption at its November 1 meeting, then post the job that night or the next day. On November 1, it is anticipated that the Select Board will appoint a screening committee for the first round of applicants.

Select Board member Toby Burr sought to confirm that the process is "not ironclad," to which fellow member Norm Hills replied, "There's a lot of flexibility."

Middleborough will be McGrail's second job in the general role, and at 72.2 square miles (second in Massachusetts only to Plymouth) not only is Middleborough geographically nearly three times Marion's size, the landlocked community that dominates Route 495 between Wareham and Route 24 has approximately five times Marion's population at over 25,000.

Atop that, the operations model of town manager will place McGrail in greater authority that he has had as town administrator in Marion.

McGrail begins his new job on November 21.

The board also voted to approve a contract amendment drawn up by Town Counsel Jon Witten that covers the timeline of McGrail's departure.

Marion's Energy Management Committee prepared long and hard to use its 6:15 pm appointment with the Select Board to spread awareness and of its work and successes, to stress the need for a municipal grant writer to sustain its work and to urge the board to consider its recommendations to use the two, ongoing, major municipal construction projects as opportunities to make Marion a leader in what the EMC insists must be a locally driven revolution away from fossil fuels.

Led by Chairman Christian Ingerslev, several EMC members including Jennifer Francis, Tom Friedman, Eileen Marum, Alanna Nelson and Bill Saltonstall all reported to the Select Board on various projects undertaken in recent months by the committee.

Saltonstall gave a brief synopsis of the town's progression to become a state-recognized Green Community, highlighting Marion's five-year reduction of municipal energy use by 18.7%, nearly reaching 20%, a number that triggers more grant-funding opportunities with the state agency.

To date, Green Communities grants coming into Marion total $691,667. Francis credits the efforts of former Town Planner Gil Hilario, who regularly attended many municipal public meetings as the town's unofficial remote-meeting manager.

Hilario's research into grant-funding opportunities was lauded by Francis, but in the throes of the Covid pandemic, the departure of Lockheed Martin and major municipal and private construction projects, McGrail's intentions to split grant-writing duties with new Town Planner/Conservation Agent Doug Guey-Lee have not been able to match Hilario's allocation of time.

"There's a lot of opportunity coming down the pike, and if we're not ready to go, we're going to miss the boat," said Francis.

In response to the committee's concerns regarding communication with the Select Board, Chairman Randy Parker encouraged the EMC to make regular appearances before the board and delved into discussion about the Department of Public Works construction and its capacity for solar, highlighting opportunistic points at which the EMC should prepare to interject energy-related proposals.

electricity, the EMC concluded its report by tossing a question to the Select Board.

"This has to be the decade that we pull back from climate change, and it has to start at the local level," said Ingerslev. "What can the committee do to assist the town? We work for you."

"You've given us a lot to think about," said Hills, indicating that a proper answer would take some time to formulate.

In a 6:30 pm appointment, DPW Interim Director Becky Tilden and Jody Dickerson reported on staffing updates, announcing that in the wake of departures of the town's plumber and mechanic, Andrew Leconte has been moved into the mechanic's position and Heath Harriman is now a DPW foreman.

McGrail credited Tilden's leadership in the recent purchase of a street sweeper and dump truck.

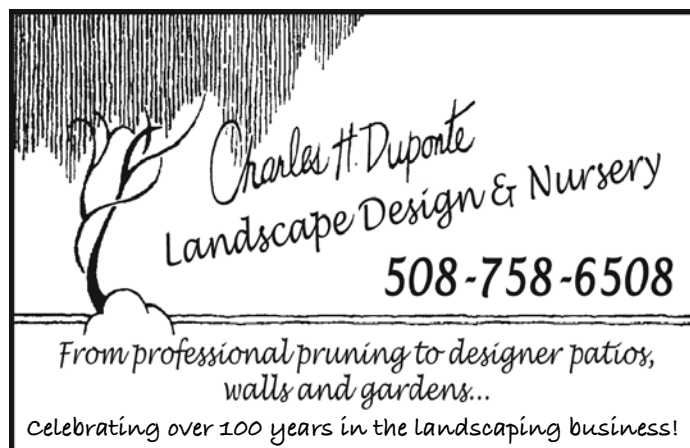

His update on the DPW Building Committee during his Town Administrator's Report rebooted discussion with EMC members.

McGrail also announced the timeline of a hire for the Board of Assessors in the wake of assessor Catherine Gibbs' passing. A joint appointment with the Select Board will be made. The application deadline for the job is November 10. Interviews will be conducted in joint session on November 15, and a joint vote is planned for December 6.

The Select Board also voted to approve: to formalize a winter-maintenance agreement for up to 13 private roads, Steen Realty's installation of sub-metering at Marion Village Estates, the Marion Library Association Agreement, the Warrant for the November 8 General Election and designation of Chief of Police Richard Nighelli to assign a detail.

In attendance, developer Ken Steen explained that the submetering is not being done for billing purposes but to "monitor consumption ... savings and conservation. ... Otherwise, there's just no way that we can do it." Installation will take place with oversight from the DPW.

The town will hold a Veterans Day ceremony on Friday, November 11, at Old Landing with Marion Technical Sergeant Randy Gibbons as guest speaker.

School Consolidation Study Stages Set

Mattapoisett Select Board

By Marilou Newell

During Tuesday night's public meeting of the Mattapoisett Select Board, members heard from Town Administrator Mike Lorenzo the stages that have taken or will take place from the UMass Boston Collins Center school-consolidation study.

Present throughout the evening was Mattapoisett School Committee member Carly Lavin, who has stepped forward as an active team member for the balance of the study.

Lorenzo said that up to September, the Collins team was collecting data. He went on to say that in November, the entire study team that also includes Select Board Chairman Tyler Macallister will be making site visits. During the month of February, the Collins team will begin drafting its report, which is likely to be released in the March-April timeframe.

In the meantime, a survey intended to engage the residents and receive their input on the concept of school consolidation and related matters will be posted on the town's website (Mattapoisett.net) on Friday, October 21. This data, once collected, will become part of the Collins report. Macallister suggested that those residents needing assistance to complete the online-only survey should use the services of the library or the Mattapoisett Council on Aging.

Lorenzo said that at least two public meetings are also planned. The date is Wednesday, November 2, at 10:00 am in the Knights of Columbus Hall and again that evening at 6:00 pm in the Old Rochester Regional High School cafeteria. Lorenzo is also planning a remote-meeting option as well, possibly for November 9 or 17. He encouraged the public to get involved in the process and that school-choice families will be allowed to participate.

Earlier in the meeting, the Select Board and Lorenzo announced a procedural error had taken place in regards to two appointments to the Finance Committee. In July, it was noted, while processing all appointed positions held by residents for terms nearing expiration, they had failed to have present the town moderator and a member of the School Committee to vote on two expiring appointments on the Finance Committee.

Lavin inquired how the process works. Lorenzo and Macallister, along with member Jordan Collyer, said that all appointments have a three-year limit mandated by the state. However, if an appointment expires, the person remains appointed until such time as the person whose term is expiring is reappointed and sworn in or replaced by a new appointee.

It was further disclosed that two Finance Committee members required reappointment following the established process with the town moderator and school committee member present to vote. Lavin asked how appointees are selected. It was explained that all members of the Finance Committee have finance backgrounds.

Lorenzo said he would coordinate having all the necessary parties together after November 4 to make the appointments of Colby Rotler and Kevin Geraghty on par with the appointment bylaw.

It was further noted by Lorenzo that there is an open seat on the Capital Planning Committee intended to be filled by a School Committee member. Collyer said anyone interested in a committee appointment should send a letter of interest to the Select Board.

The November 14 Town Meeting Warrant was opened with Lorenzo saying he didn't anticipate anything out of the ordinary, just a few finance-related matters and possibly eight or nine articles for voters to hear.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Select Board was not scheduled upon adjournment.

Gilmore Leaves ZBA in 'Good' Hands

Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals

By Michael J. DeCicco

The Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals started its October 13 meeting by honoring one of its veteran former members.

Kirby Gilmore, 77, retired this year after 42 years of service on the zoning panel. Last Thursday, he was awarded a certificate of appreciation, "for many years of Community Service and Dedication to the Town of Rochester and its residents."

When he accepted the certificate from ZBA Chairman David Arancio, Gilmore was humble yet obviously proud. "I started in 1980 on this board as an alternate," he said. "I served a lot of years. It's just nice to see other people stepping up to volunteer."

In an obvious nod to his successor on the board, newly appointed full member Donald Spirlet, he said, "You've got good people now."

The board then turned to a public hearing that attracted several neighbors of 635 Mary's Pond Road. Surprisingly, the neighbors were there to support, rather than oppose, Rochester firefighter/paramedic Patrick Flanagan's request for zoning variances to erect a 24x40-foot addition to his home for his elderly parents and a 36x70-foot garage on his small, 1.1-acre lot.

Flanagan said his plan is to move his mother and father to his home address because they are in their sixties and seventies (respectively) and in failing health. He said he wants to avoid sending them to a nursing home. "I've seen how the system treats seniors," he said. "I don't want that for them."

He also wants to install a prefabricated, Hansen-style, barn-like garage with a metal roof to store his boat, which is now in storage elsewhere and his tools. He said he would like to work on his boat in the wintertime and pursue his hobby of fixing cars.

The addition will be closer than the 40 feet from the side-lot setback that is allowed in the zoning bylaw, approximately 29 feet back instead. Flanagan said his lot is very narrow on the west side of the lot because of the property's configuration.

The garage will be larger than the 1,000 square feet that the bylaw allows for an accessory structure.

The ZBA unanimously approved the variance after neighbors in the hearing room voiced their support.

GREAT STAFF

Bob St. Orange of 627 Mary's Pond Road said he was there to say "I have no problem with his plan."

Even ZBA member Jeffrey Costa, who recused himself from voting on the variances because he is also Flannagan's abutter, said, "I have absolutely no issues with this plan."

Neighbor Melissa Dougall added, "I think it's a great idea. He's a good neighbor."

When motioning his approval vote, zoning panel member Richard Cutler said, "We call this an in-law apartment. And I'd like to see more of them. It would help a lot of people."

"No neighbors are complaining," Spirlet said. "It all looks good to me."

The variances were approved with the conditions that the dwellings will not be converted into a multifamily house, no on-street parking, no commercial use and in the case of the variance for the garage, no housing of animals.

Meanwhile, a hearing into a project at 0 Quaker Lane on the October 13 agenda was continued until October 27 at the request of the petitioner's attorney. Variances at that address are being requested for the construction of a single house which does not meet minimum lot requirements. Several attendees who were obviously there for that hearing swiftly exited after the announcement.

The next meeting of the Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals will be held on Thursday, October 27, at the town's office building, 1 Constitution Way, also accessible via Zoom.

Two-Lot Subdivision Drenched in Concern

Marion Planning Board

By Marilou Newell

River Road abutters voiced their concerns over a proposed, two-lot subdivision located off Wareham Road adjacent to River Road when the Marion Planning Board met with Bob Rogers of G.A.F. Engineering on Monday night.

detailed the drainage plan and pointed out that a nearly identical project had been planned in November 2012 after receiving conditions and waivers. That project never advanced beyond the planning stage, Rogers noted. Now armed with updated drainage plans, proposals were back on the drawing table.

Rogers said that the basic, two-lot subdivision would now be connected to the municipal drainage system that the town installed in 2012. He said the project was pending new percolation testing being asked for by the Board of Health but that the original plan, other than stormwater drainage, was primarily the same.

A cul-de-sac that will provide the necessary frontage for the residential lots was discussed. Rogers told the board that a letter to the Fire Department had been sent with no comments received to date.

The roadway is planned to be 18-feet wide with two, 9-foot travel lanes. Planning Board member Andrew Daniel said that the requirement was for a total of 20 feet. Rogers responded that when a berm and swale were added to the 18-foot width proposed, the total exceeded 20 feet. He said there would be sufficient room for fire apparatus to maneuver.

Addressing questions from the board regarding the stormwater drainage plans, Rogers said, "There are seven catch basins along the 250-foot road." He also reminded the members that the road would remain a private way.

When public comment was invited, several neighbors in the River Road area expressed their long-held concerns, centering primarily on stormwater potential to flood their established holdings.

Jack Beck, 17 River Road, said that in the past, heavy rainfall unchecked created deep ruts in his driveway. Eric Bart, 24 River Road, said that his basement is regularly flooded and that the removal of trees to create the lots will further add to the problems associated with runoff.

Rogers responded, "We have put extra effort into the design," but that there may be a "couple of months" when the site is unstable that may be problematic. If weather comes into play, "...there may be sediment transfer," he said. But Rogers also assured all that erosion controls would be in place.

Also voicing similar concerns were Jeremy Hutton, 67 Wareham Road, and board member Chris Collings, who was speaking as a private citizen.

The hearing was continued to Monday, November 21, at 7:05 pm.

The board voted unanimously to make official its acceptance of the revision to Section 300-2.1 through 300-6.1 of Marion's Subdivision Rules and Regulations as presented at the board's last meeting. The revision ditched the previously proposed use of a Hybrid-Y dead-end-road design and instead will allow the use of an expanded-width cul-de-sac or hammerhead, the required dimensions of which accompany diagrams that are now included in those Rules and Regulations.

As he had in the board's last public meeting, local developer Sherman Briggs readdressed the matter of the Marion Village Overlay District, questioning the role of the Codification Committee as author of the document rather than the Planning Board.

Board Chairman Norm Hills once again explained that the Codification Committee is a subcommittee of the Planning Board. Daniel and fellow Planning Board member Jon Henry agreed that the Planning Board should author the document, but Planning Board members are not allowed per state Open Meeting Law to attend a Codification Committee meeting without turning it into a public meeting of the Planning Board requiring posting. Hills said that after the next meeting of the Codification Committee, he would bring the document to the Planning Board for its scrutiny.

The next meeting of the Marion Planning Board is scheduled for Monday, November 7, at 7:00 pm.

Two Negatives Send Projects Forward

Rochester Conservation Commission

By Michael J. DeCicco

The Rochester Conservation Commission Tuesday night said no twice, but in a very positive way.

In two public hearings, the commission issued determinations that projects to build an agricultural storage shed at 0 Pierce Street and replace a failing septic system at 213 Walnut Plain Road will not impact nearby wetlands.

The 96x60-foot agricultural building being planned for Pierce Street will be a metal structure constructed with slab-on grade, said Rick Charon of Charon Associates, representing petitioner Bayside Agricultural, Inc. Charon said the location is near the staging area for a proposed solar facility, so it is mainly sand and stone. The building will not need a water supply or septic system. It will be used to store bog-related equipment such as sand barges. Silt socks will be placed on one side at the limit of the buffer zone.

A failing septic system and cesspool at 213 Walnut Plain Road is being replaced with a new system that will require a new leaching field, said George Ayoub of GTA Engineering, representing petitioner Jacob Galary of Fairhaven.

The result will be a new system with 40 percent less of a leaching area, said Ayoub, who was appearing via Zoom. No work will happen within 100 feet of the wetlands buffer zone except minor grading, he said.

For both projects, the commissioners' questions were few and the Negative Determination votes unanimous.

The brief meeting ended with a vote to set the Rochester Conservation Commission's next meeting for Tuesday, November 1, at 7:00 pm at Old Colony Regional Vocational-Technical High School library, 476 North Avenue, Rochester, accessible remotely via Zoom.

Heron Cove Finally Gets Go-Ahead

Marion Zoning Board of Appeals

By Mick Colageo

The public hearing having been closed at its last meeting, the Marion Zoning Board of Appeals was eager on October 13 to vote accept Ken Steen's application for a comprehensive permit as amended, corrected and enclosed in Town Counsel Jon Witten's revised draft decision approving the site plan dated October 6 to build Heron Cove Estates.

Steen's 120-unit, affordable-housing development planned off Route 6 near the Wareham town line is a Local Initiative Program (LIP) 670CMR negotiated with and approved by the Marion Select Board. The public hearing was opened on January 30, 2020, according to Witten.

Steen's representatives indicated agreement with all requests, and the revisions were acceptable.

The ZBA was especially eager to vote in part because it was down to three eligible voting members, the bare minimum allowed and even then necessitating unanimity.

With the vote of approval, Steen is required to start construction three years from October 12, 2022 and required to complete the project five years from the date he files an occupancy permit.

Steen originally sought a 10-year limit, according to ZBA Chair Cynthia Callow, but member Will Tifft said there was discussion, and five years was the board's consensus.

Callow instructed the members that now that the decision is approved, the ZBA has until November 8 to get the decision written and signed and stamped. She hopes that happens sooner because it would allow Steen to pull his permit, triggering the state to put the planned 120 affordable units on Marion's affordable-housing account.

"Mr. Steen is eager to start breaking ground in 45 days from the day it's stamped. If he can't ... he has a year to start," said Callow.

Steen confirmed Callow's procedure, noting that the permit signifies Marion would then be over the state threshold of 10% in affordable housing, authorizing the town to reject future applications seeking permits to build such developments in favor of market-rate projects that would bring greater tax revenue to the town.

Callow thanked the ZBA members for their due diligence. "I don't think anyone in the town could question our devotion," she said.

Steen also thanked the board.

Marion Building Commissioner Bob Grillo called Heron Cove Estates a "textbook LIP."

"Towns don't like 40B's," he said. "The (Select Board) negotiated in good faith. They both got a little bit of what they wanted and a little bit of what they didn't want, right? And it started out from there. Laborious as this procedure has been, it's been pretty straightforward."

Callow told the membership that if as expected Steen returns to the ZBA per the agreement with issues that necessitate votes, the full membership would become eligible to vote on those follow-up matters.

Grillo suggested facing three distinct stages of vetting before, during and after construction, there be an internal document for oversight. Determining ahead of time which departments are going to be involved would help identify and bring them into the loop so that the project has a central nervous system within town offices.

"It's nothing that has to be done tomorrow, but bring it back to the next meeting," said Grillo. "Get a document that is easily manageable, but make sure our I's are dotted ... We want to dictate who's going to be responsible for what."

With the Heron Cove decision rendered, the ZBA also voted to seek authorization to use the "Mullin Rule." The board will ask the Select Board to sponsor an article in the Warrant for next spring's Annual Town Meeting. Even with town vote, the attorney general still needs to approve the change.

The article would read: To see if the Town will vote to accept for the following boards, committees or commissions holding adjudicatory hearings in the Town, the provisions of Massachusetts General Law Chapters 39 and 23D, which provide that a member of a board, committee or commission holding an adjudicatory hearing shall not be disqualified from voting in the matter solely due to the member's absence from one session of such hearing, provided that certain conditions as established by said statute are met. OBITUARIES

Natalie Thayer Richards, 94, of Mattapoisett, passed away on Monday October 10th after a life very well lived. Born in Weymouth, MA to Howard and Madeline Richards, the family soon moved to Norton, MA where they turned an apple orchard ruined by bad luck and a hard freeze into a celebrated poultry business. Natalie was extremely proud of her Mother and Dad who eventually put down roots in Antassawamock. It was there that she developed her love of sailing and the sea. Natalie graduated from Middlebury College with a teaching degree and went on to teach English in Westwood for a time before the call of the sea beckoned her to relocate to her small cottage on Buzzards Bay. For many years she tutored youngsters in the community there, sharing her love of reading and passion for education with her students. She continued to share her love of learning with the wider community into her later years. One of her greatest joys was volunteering at the South Coast Learning Network in New Bedford. She also volunteered at the Shepherd's Pantry in Fairhaven. An avid traveler, she made many lifelong friends across the globe. When Natalie wasn't doing for others, or off on an adventure, she enjoyed gardening, reading, cooking, painting, throwing pottery, weaving baskets and working with stained glass. For years she would get up at first light to go for a swim in Buzzards Bay. She shared her many interests and talents with her nephew and nieces, their children, and her many loving friends in Antassawamock, Mattapoisett and beyond. Her family remembers her for her many gifts and talents, her love of boating, and for showing them all up by catching the biggest fish using only a handline. Natalie is survived by her younger brother, Edward and his wife, Lorraine, of Laconia NH, their four children, and eleven grandnieces and nephews. As is her wish, there will be no formal ceremony but she will be memorialized in a small private celebration of life with her family.

Longtime Marion, MA resident Kathryn Lynn Babbitt, 94, passed away at Waveny Care Center on October 4, 2022 in New Canaan, Connecticut.

She was born in Princeton, West Virginia on April 27, 1928 to Francis Norton Davidson and Eva Gallaher Davidson.

Following Mr. Davidson's work-related accidental death when Katy was but eight months old, her mother subsequently married Colonel John Clementson Key, a professor of mathematics and engineering at The Citadel, and the family lived in Charleston.

Katy graduated from Meminger Girls' High School and the College of Charleston, where she was a History major and President of her Chi Omega sorority chapter. Shortly after graduation she and Edwin (Ted) V. Babbitt were married, and they soon moved to Marion, MA where her husband joined the Babbitt Steam Specialty family business in New Bedford.

During her years living in Marion, along with her husband Katy was a communicant of St. Gabriel's Church and during the 1950s was a founding member of the Marion Art Center's theater group called The Hornblowers. She actively participated as a member of The Sippican Tennis Club, The Kittansett Club, the Country Club of Charleston, and The Beverly Yacht Club. She was predeceased by her husband Ted Jr. and son Ted III. Katy is survived by her daughter Donna (John) Reinman, two grandsons, and two great grandchildren. She also leaves her daughter-in-law Jane Babbitt, her four grandsons and granddaughter, and two great grandsons.

An only child, Katy was a loving, kind person who retained a lifelong affection for her native South. She spent many happy days sailing with family, playing bridge, tennis and golf with friends, and enjoying her many poodles including Timothy, her companion for most of her final 14 years. She will be greatly missed by all who remember her considerable beauty, gracious charm and gentle personality. The family wishes to thank the Inn at Waveny and her caregiver Florence, who provided excellent care in her final years.

Internment will be private, followed by a memorial service to take place at St. Gabriel's in Marion, MA on at 2pm October 21st.

Mark Robertson Davis of Marion, MA passed away on Monday, October 10, 2022 at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton, MA at the age of 51.

Mark was born on March 9, 1971 in Wareham, MA. He is the son of the late Charles R. and Lucia (Jenkins) Davis. He was raised and lived in Marion most of his life.

Mark was a graduate of Old Rochester Regional High School class of 1989. He then went on to graduate from New England Institute of Technology. He spent 25+ years in the construction business where he was well respected in project management positions and often worked as a structural engineer. In his final position he worked as facilities manager at Teledyne Marine of Falmouth, MA. He was very conscientious in any task he performed.

Mark had numerous interests which included baking, music, as well as walking the beach. He was very artistic and loved playing his guitar.

He is survived by his wife, Jennifer (Souza) Davis, sons Caleb, and Jacob Davis and daughter, Hannah Davis, his siblings, Robert Davis, Stephanie Davis, Scott Davis, Glenn Davis and Charles Davis all of Marion and fourteen nieces and nephews.

His celebration of life will take place on Saturday October 22, 2022 at Nickerson Funeral Home on 40 MacAr-

Zoning Board of Appeals.

On Grillo's recommendation, the ZBA voted to continue to December 22 at 6:30 pm a case opened to hear an application for variances from Martha Collins-Gray and Robert Gray, who wish to add a nonconforming garage to their 114 Front Street residence.

The next meeting of the Marion ZBA is scheduled for Thursday, November 10, at 6:00 pm at the Marion Police Station, also accessible via Zoom.

Heron Cove Won't End Pursuit of Affordable Units

Marion Affordable Housing Trust

By Marilou Newell

For over a year, the Marion Affordable Housing Trust has been editing the Housing Production Plan for the community. In partnership with the Southeast Regional Planning and Economic Development District (SRPEDD), the plan will stand as a roadmap to aid those seeking affordable housing options in Marion.

On October 11, Tobey Ast, Norm Hills, Nancy McFadden and Chairperson Terri Santos met to finalize edits to the production document.

With the 120-unit, Heron Cove 40B housing project on the horizon, the Town of Marion, Santos noted, will reach 11-percent of all housing stock as being "affordable," a number slightly above the state's suggested 10 percent.

MOVIE REVIEW

This Is It?

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Halloween Ends*. Starring Jamie Lee Curtis and Andi Matichak. Directed by David Gordon Green. Running time: 101 minutes. MPAA rating: R. Now playing in theaters and streaming on Peacock.

We certainly can't say that Halloween Ends, the last of the new trilogy supposedly putting paid to the struggle between superslasher Michael Myers and survivor Laurie Strode (Jamie Lee Curtis), does the same old same old. It diverges so wildly from what most fans might expect of a Halloween film that I'd like to give it points on that basis alone. This leg of the franchise has taken the story deadly seriously, layering on subtext after subtext, which is fine if the text itself engages and entertains. But Halloween Ends, like its 2021 predecessor Halloween Kills, comes across more annoying and depressing than scary.

A nerdy kid named Cunningham with an overbearing, forbidding mother runs across an avatar of evil and loses his moral bearings. John Carpenter made that movie in 1983, from a book by Stephen King, Christine. Well, it also describes the key conflict here. David Gordon Green, who has directed all three of these Halloween movies, and wrote this one with three other guys, has possibly placed this as an Easter egg for the fans. Okay, neat. But the kid here, Corey Cunningham (Rohan Campbell), barely makes sense as a human being. Notoriety has followed him from an incident in which he accidentally killed a kid he was babysitting, and after he's bullied and meets Michael in the sewers, Michael seems to recognize himself in the kid, and vice versa.

Meanwhile, Corey also falls for Laurie's granddaughter Allyson (Andi Matichak), but if we're supposed to root for him to reach out towards love and sanity and break from the "dark path" he's trudging down, we don't. We don't like him and we don't care. Green and his co-writers have made Halloween movies more fit for analysis than for seasonal scares. Everything in the movie only makes sense symbolically; taken literally, the plotting is stupid, depending, once again, on people doing the absolute dumbest things they can do. If Halloween Kills was "really" about the deranging power of fear, this one says that evil never dies, it just changes faces under the mask.

The kills are as brutal as ever, accompanied by stylized sounds of squelching, spattering, and slicing. The dirty secret of the slasher subgenre is that its structure allows us to enjoy the murder and mutilation; they're the crescendos in a musical piece. To his credit, Green wants to do something different, uglifying the deaths. But without the fun or suspense or even the morbid curiosity that makes us want to look at the blood and brains on the floor, where's the entertainment? I wound up not being sure what Green and his cohorts wanted to accomplish with this trilogy. Here, there's more boring stuff about how violent tragedy can deform a whole community; we learn that some folks in Haddonfield, Illinois, the sleepy death town where all of this unfolds, blame Laurie for the new Michael murders. This is an example of how the script wants to Say Something Important — in this case, about victim-blaming, I guess? — but completely fumbles it as a plausible thing that happens in the story.

Rohan Campbell has been coached to play the faux-Michael as a sullen, misunderstood kid who kept reminding me unhelpfully of the irritating Caleb Landry Jones. There's not much of a shift between Corey when he's "normal" and Corey when he's gone off the deep end. As for Jamie Lee Curtis, who has been riding a media blitz surrounding her last dance with Michael Myers, she gets a Big Moment near the end but otherwise can't do a lot with Laurie as (inconsistently) written. I can read Curtis' loyalty to this diminishing-returns trilogy — she's said she owes her career to Laurie Strode and is grateful to the franchise's fans for the life she's had — far more easily than I can read anyone's motivations in the film. I will always be fond of Curtis, but the Laurie in these films is beyond my understanding. Green's 2018 Halloween famously proceeded from the 1978 original and disregarded any of the sequels. By and large, I would like to disregard Green's sequels, too. His first effort was solid, and he should have stopped there and resisted the temptation to Say Something Important.

But that doesn't mean the work stops for this committee.

Santos said that of their stated goals for rental and real estate, down-payment assistance plays a part in the overall housing scheme.

Also noted was the importance of continuing the pursuit of affordable units, given that agreements between the town and developer or unit owners oftentimes have a finite "dropout" date, the date when the unit is no longer required to remain affordable.

Santos mentioned that the Heron Cove units may list for approximately $116,065. She also commented that "any affordable units" are good units.

Another area of interest for the committee is finding ways to modify or change zoning requirements so that units not currently qualified become qualifiable. Santos suggested that accessory structures, primarily family-related additions, become convertible to affordable rental units. Hills commented that this proposal has been brought before Town Meeting in the past but was not proven acceptable to the voters.

Another area being reviewed is the possibility of development on town-owned parcels. However, Hills stated such lands are primarily deeded to open space.

The next meeting of the Marion Affordable Housing Trust is scheduled for Monday, November 2, at 6:00 pm.

Mooring Moves Aimed at Better Fit

Marion Marine Resources Commission

By Mick Colageo

The boating season has ended, and the Marion Harbormaster Department has cleared the outer harbor of 5 mile-per-hour markers, so all remaining markers are in the inner harbor, including red and green markers with a couple of rock markers left, it was announced at Monday night's meeting of the Marion Marine Resources Commission at the Music Hall.

The work of relocating moorings is in progress in Marion Harbor, and department staff went through entire inner harbor. Harbormaster Isaac Perry said they have identified the "more-egregious" permit holders and whittled down to two moorings in order to relocate a small vessel to where a 45-footer was parked. The goal is to permit by March.

"People were overall receptive to it; there's one holdout that I've got to work with," said Perry. "We're trying to take it piece by piece, going after the obvious ones."

The waiting list for a mooring in Marion Harbor is approximately 170 deep. Perry said that smaller boats move up the list more rapidly. Whereas a 40- to 45-foot boat will not get a mooring for 20 or 25 years, vessels measuring under 25 feet tend to move up in approximately 10 years.

Renewals are coming back, Perry said, noting that

TriTOWN HAPPENINGS

Throngs of little children and parents enjoyed a fun evening on October 13, as the Mattapoissett Fire Department held its first Fire Prevention Month event in the new Fire Station on Route 6. Children enjoyed clamoring over and into several pieces of apparatus and taking pictures with Sparky the Fire Dog (aka Firefighter David Stewart.) Young and old alike learned at-home, fire-prevention techniques, including hands-on training for use of fire extinguishers. Select Board member Jodi Bauer said, "What little children learn now will stay with them for years to come, making events such as this so important." Select Board member Jordan Collyer (also a captain in the Fire Department) said it was a great opportunity for the community and a service the department is pleased to provide. "It's great!" Photos by Marilou Newell

Planking for the bike path is under test review, and the installation of railings along the elevated sections of railings can be seen from the Reservation Road portion of Phase 1b of the Mattapoissett Bike Path. Town Administrator Mike Lorencio said that although a different type of planking material is being tested, the town will not accept the project for ownership until MassDOT enters into a joint-ownership agreement and/or provides bonding assurances in the event of material failure as previous experienced on this much-delayed project. Photo by Marilou Newell

On October 12, the Marion Natural History Museum hosted Chris Reddy, senior scientist at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, who specializes in marine pollution and petroleum geochemistry. Reddy became interested in plastics in 2008 when he worked with Dr. Kara Lavender Law at Sea Education Association to study the distribution and chemical composition of plastic in the North Atlantic Ocean. This presentation will be available soon on Vimeo through ORCTV and the museum's website. Among many other topics, Reddy discussed how certain plastics break down in the ocean environment and the plastic "island" in the area of the Bermuda Triangle. The museum wishes to thank Chris Reddy for his enlightening presentation. Photo courtesy of Elizabeth Leidhold

if applicants miss two subsequent years, they fall off the waiting list.

"We take the additional steps to record all that stuff. ... it's case by case," he said. "If you intend to stay on the list and pay the back-renewals, I'll put you back on the list."

There have been more mooring assignments and relocations than in the past.

"We're pretty pleased with the movement that we've seen on that list," said Perry, who does not blame Covid or economics for the increase. "A lot of stuff has been moving. Trying to get those larger vessels on moorings that are more suitable. ... It's starting to move, but people are receptive to it."

In one case, two moorings were swapped, allowing the Harbormaster Department to get rid of a triangle shape; now there are 1.5 acres set aside for anchorage, an area that depending on the size of the vessels, could accommodate four or five boats.

There is a moratorium on new moorings in the outer harbor with a cap of 1,414. Perry estimates there are 995 moorings in Marion's inner harbor. The outer 350 moorings are spread out in the Aucoot, Planting Island, Blankenship, Weweantic and Wings coves.

Addressing access issues, Perry said a waiting list is up in Wings Cove. He said that 98 moorings were originally permitted there, and he estimates between 45 and 50 boats at present.

Size is apparently not a confining factor at Piney Point, said Perry, where a 60-footer is permitted. "Draft is an issue, but you get some fairly deep water at Piney Point," he said, noting that Marion or Rochester residents (the latter with an additional sticker requirement) are allowed. "It's not ideal over there."

Aucoot Cove, he said, offers no public access and is "all driven by the residents." Indian Cove, he added, did allow access, "but that's gone away."

The department has pumped out 900 boats (and 16,000 gallons), but Perry told the MRC, "It's really the same boats over and over again. A lot of boats don't have heads ... this is the norm, we're a little ahead of the game."

Deputy Harbormaster/Shellfish Officer Adam Murphy reported on maintenance work and the activity

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This is a good time for the usually outspoken Lamb to be a bit more discreet. You still can get your point across, but do it in a way less likely to turn off a potential supporter.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Good news: All that hard work you put in is beginning to pay off. But you need to watch that tendency to insist on doing things your way or no way. Be a bit more flexible.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might want to delay making a decision on the future of a long-standing relationship until you check out some heretofore hidden details that are just now beginning to emerge.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your reluctance to compromise on an important issue could backfire without more facts to support your position. Weigh your options carefully before making your next move.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This is a good time for ambitious Leos or Leonas to shift from planning their next move to actually executing it. Your communication skills help persuade others to join you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Relationships -- personal or professional -- present new challenges. Be careful not to let a sudden surge of stubbornness influence how you choose to deal with them.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might need more facts before you can decide on a possible career change. But you should have no problem making a decision about an important personal matter.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You're respected by most people for your direct, no-nonsense approach to the issues. But be careful you don't replace honest skepticism with stinging sarcasm.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A newly emerging situation could require a good deal of attention and some difficult decision-making. However, close friends will help you to see it through.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Family matters need attention. Check things out carefully. There still might be unresolved tensions that could hinder your efforts to repair damaged relationships.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Of course you deserve to indulge yourself in something special. But for now, tuck that bit of mad money away. You'll need it to help with a looming cash crunch.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A temporary setback in your financial situation is eased by changing some of your plans. You'll be able to ride it out quite well until the tide turns back in your favor.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for understanding people's needs. You have a low tolerance for those who act without concern for others.

of hauling in floats, something he expects to conclude over the next couple of weeks and to "get that pump-out station tied up for the winter."

Perry is looking to get everything wrapped up and out of the water and all boats off the docks by November 1. That is two weeks sooner than the former out-of-the-water date.

It is already time to begin FY24 budget discussions. Perry anticipates that boat maintenance, which has been outsourced, looms as only significant increase on the horizon. The counter-rotating motor in the patrol boat will be the main expense.

The state Seaport Economic Council application beat the deadline, and a November meeting may yield a result as to whether the new Marine Center will have its final $1,000,000 grant for construction. "We hope to hear sooner rather than later ... if so, great, it's the last piece of the puzzle. If not, then we need to look elsewhere (for the funding)," said Perry.

The Municipal Police Training Committee (MPTC) Bridge Academy for police-reform training will include 120 hours online and 80 hours in person in Randolph. Bridge Academy training is free, except for material costs estimated at $1,500. Certification is a three-year process after which reserve officers emerge as law-enforcement officers (there is no more full- and part-time distinction.)

Murphy is ahead of Perry in the process and is about to start scheduling in-person classes. The work must be completed by the end of June, but Perry says he wants to get it out of the way by the end of April, certainly in May, as seasonal work for 2023 picks up.

In his Shellfish Management report to the commission, Murphy explained that Tabor Academy has worked with the town to take over propagation, using town's upweller. "Then students use it with their biology program, so they're cleaning them and raising them and putting them in bags," he said, noting that the shellfish is in floating bags in front of the school. "We'll figure out the best way to get those out."

The department also reports that there is a lot more recreational fishing going on this year.

Nasketucket Bird Club October Meeting

Hummingbirds with Dana Duxbury-Fox and Bob Fox on Thursday, October 27 at 7:00 pm at the Mattapoissett Free Public Library and online. Email nbcbirdclub@gmail.com for information and the Zoom link.

Dana and Bob have developed a new talk focusing on Hummingbirds, that spectacular bird family we love and think we know. They will begin by focusing on what is a hummingbird and their adventures with 10 different, remarkable species they have seen on their journeys in the Americas. Then they will share the results of recent research which has given us deeper insights into the wonders of this family - how they evolved, pollination through nectar gathering (including a comparison with bees and butterflies), their diet of insects and nectar, nectar feeding technique, use of torpor, how iridescence is produced and their courtship. Many spectacular pictures and videos will be included. Come and marvel at these little gems.

Machacam Club

The next meeting of the Machacam Club is scheduled for Wednesday, November 2. We meet at the American Legion Eastman Post on Depot Street. Doors open at 5 pm for social time followed by dinner at 6 pm. Our speaker program begins at 6:45. Chef Ken Dawicki will be preparing for us a filling and delicious meal. New members are always welcome. Please contact Chuck at cwmccullough@comcast.net with questions.

Nunes as Alice, Calder Eaton as the Cheshire Cat, Kathleen Dunn as the Queen of Hearts and Jorge Carrillo as the Mad Hatter. There are plenty of laughs and references to pop culture which make this a play which is best for older children (grade 5 and up) and their grownups. Note: The ORR High School is currently a latex-free building. Due to issues with latex elastics, we ask that no flower bouquets be brought inside the school. Thank you for your consideration. Tickets will be available at Marion General Store, Pen & Pendulum in Mattapoisett and Friends' Marketplace in Rochester and also at the door. Students & Senior Citizens $12.00, General Admission $15.00.

Show Summary: "Alice in Wonderland" by Anne Coulter Martens presents a quaint and simplistic version of Lewis Carroll's timeless classic. As the curtain rises, Alice slides into view at the end of her long fall down the rabbit-hole. It is a more delightful place for the audience than for Alice, who is trying desperately to get back home. She tries to get help from Wonderland's craziest neighbors, the Mad Hatter, the Rabbit and from the very nice Cheshire Cat. Throughout her exploration of Wonderland, Alice comes to realize that finding the door that matches her special key is a more dangerous adventure than she thought."

Upcoming Events for Adults at the Mattapoisett Library

Elizabeth Sylvia and Wendy Drexler will be reading from their recent works on Saturday, October 22 at 2:00 pm at the Mattapoisett Library. None but Witches: Poems On Shakespeare's Women is a stunning debut collection by Elizabeth Sylvia, winner of the 5th annual Three Mile Harbor Poetry Prize. Although Sylvia started off accepting the truism that Shakespeare was remarkable for the depth of his female characters, she found herself surmising that the women had a lot more to say than they were given. Sylvia's poetry has been published in a wide range of literary journals, including Salamander, Pleiades, Slipstream and Crab Creek Review. Wendy Drexler will read from her latest, Notes from the Column of Memory, published in September 2022. Drexler is the recipient of a 2022 artist fellowship from the Massachusetts Cultural Council. She is the author of two earlier collections, most recently Before There Was Before (Iris Press, 2017.) Her poems have appeared in Barrow Street, Nimrod, Prairie Schooner, The Threepenny Review and Valparaiso Poetry Review, among others. Her work has been featured on Verse Daily and WBUR and in numerous anthologies. She has been the Poet-in-Residence at New Mission High School in Hyde Park, Massachusetts since 2018 and is programming co-chair for the New England Poetry Club. Light refreshments will be served.

Learn about Canning & Preserving at a workshop presented by Rhonda Fazio at 1:00 pm on Sunday, October 23. Rhonda brings years of experience in food preservation, and she will share many tips for best practices as well as favored recipes. Registration is required as space is limited; register online through our events calendar.

Larksgrove will present a concert featuring the works of Contemporary Composers in a grant funded event on Saturday, October 29 at 2:00 pm. Dynamic duo Larksgrove dives into works by living composers, discussing the process of collaborating with these creators and interpreting newer works. Larksgrove will discuss the extended techniques needed to perform these works, how these pieces are influenced by modern times and society and how they approach rehearsing and preparing a composition like this.

From the Files of the Rochester Historical Society

By Connie Eshbach

Creating a town out of unsettled land was the Proprietors', founders of Rochester, task. Deciding what a town would need most, led them in 1683 to give Joseph Burge land, materials and access to water on the condition that he would build and operate a gristmill. Fourteen years later, they offered land to Anthony Coombs, if he would come from Sandwich and build a blacksmith shop near the gristmill.

Tundra
by Chad Carpenter

In 1708, another man from Sandwich, Peter Blackmere, approached the proprietors and convinced them to grant him some large parcels of land next to and upstream of the gristmill. He purchased the gristmill and built his house on what is now Hiller Road. The picture shows what is left of his house's foundation.

A well-educated and intelligent man, he quickly became a valued citizen of the new town. He was a proprietor. He built the first church in Rochester Center. He was a surveyor and served as both the town clerk and as a selectman.

Over time he formed a partnership with Coombs and between his mill and Coomb's smithy and forge, they provided for many of the townspeople's needs. They would bring their corn and rye to grind into flour and the smithy and forge mended broken tools and sold items like nails, barrel hoops and horseshoes. Between them, they created an industrial center for early Rochester.

have developed a system to document discriminatory incidents experienced by community members in the Tri-Town. Collecting this information will help to identify how to best support the Tri-Town Region. The incident report can be completed online, either on a computer or mobile device, anonymously if preferred. Community members can also choose to identify themselves to TTAR in the report. Their personal identifying information will never be shared outside of TTAR. The incident report allows for individuals or families to share their stories to inform local change. Completing the form and sharing your experiences with TTAR will help to make a positive impact! The incident report can be found by visiting this link: forms.gle/UGEsEmjBCZTEYKX56.

MLT Salty's Soiree

Join the Mattapoisett Land Trust on Saturday, October 22 from 5:00 - 7:30 pm for an evening of fun, family-friendly, fall activities! Salty's Soiree takes place at Dunseith Park on the corner of Rt. 6 and North Street in Mattapoisett (aka Salty the Seahorse Park.) We will have music by Jeff Dunn, storytelling by Jackson Gillman the "Stand-up Chameleon," a toasty bonfire and plenty of s'mores making materials! Our latest Storywalk will also be posted at the park: Goodbye Summer, Hello Autumn.

Please park in the village and walk, do not drive to the soiree; there will not be parking available at Dunseith. Bring a flashlight with you to find your way back to your car at the end of the night. In the event of inclement weather, the rain date for the event is Saturday October 29, same time and place.

You won't want to miss this quintessential autumn evening. All are welcome!

FMCOA Annual Meeting

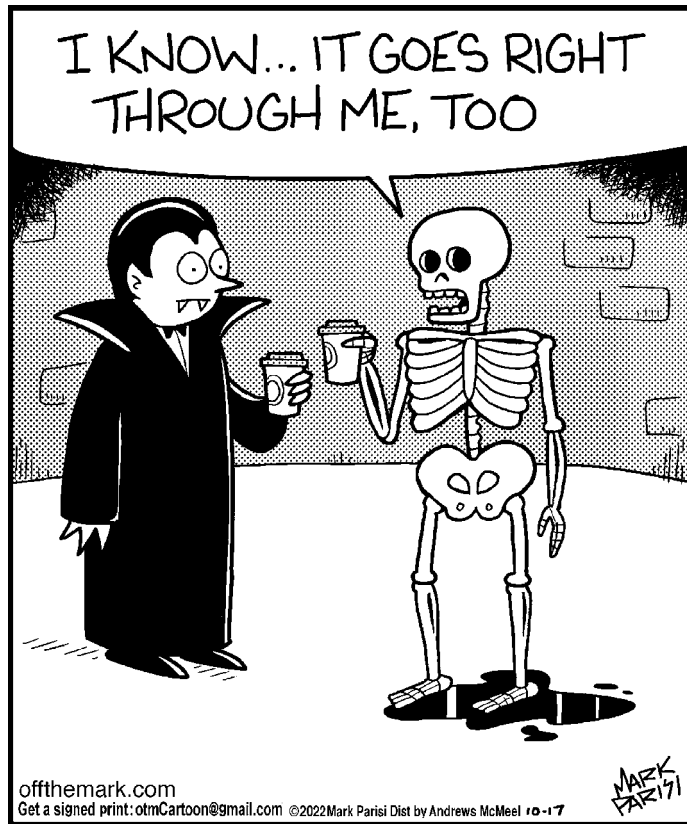

The Annual Meeting of the Friends of Marion Council on Aging (FMCOA) will be held at 5:00 pm on Thursday, October 20 at the Benjamin D. Cushing Community Center, 465 Mill Street, (Route 6), Marion. Following the meeting, light refreshments will be served. It will be a time to reflect on the past year's accomplishments and to assess future needs. We continue to promote the emotional wellbeing of the Marion community by proving financial support for programs, activities and needs for our ever-growing Marion Council on Aging. Funds are raised through fundraising efforts, membership dues, sponsorships and/or corporate gifts.

Anyone who wishes to learn about the Friends of the Marion COA is encouraged and welcome to attend the annual meeting on Thursday, October 20 at 5:00 pm. For further info on the FMCOA, please refer to the Friends website: www.fmcoa.org.

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer on line and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes!

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark
